THE CONSTITUTION

EVENING EDITION.

ATLANTA, GEORGIA:::::AUGUST 28.

Butler.

The Courts North, are making some characteristic revelations about the pilfering apostle of Radicalism—the mighty Spoons.

His brother, Andrew Jackson Butler, died in 1864, leaving a property of over $187,000. Benjamin was his executor. He for a long time would not file any inventory of the property. All the quibbles of the law were in succession invoked by this Titanian scamp, to evade an exhibition of the estate in his hands. He finally succumbed, and returned $76,391 04, as the estate property.

After this unwilling disclosure, parties interested got wind of other little plums belonging to the disputed treasure. Louisiana and California had the honor of ownership. Benjamin had ruled New Orleans once in war days, and Andrew had helped him. Cotton and silver ware, and other valuables, had not passed through the hands of this brace of Massachusetts saints, without some polite attention from their voltureships.

Another series of sharp legal battles ensued over these newly discovered plums. Benjamin's quiddities were finally demolished and the tender Puritan has had to show up another inventory of $110,640 72.

But the ingenious spoons is not to be outgeneraled by any such flimsy proceedings as they have worked on him.

All large claims against the estate he has loftily disallowed. His own claims to an immense amount, though not proven, he has deducted from the estate. And his last imperial ukase pronounces the defunct brother's estate insolvent.

The Courts are still after the foul bird, to make him disgorge his illy-gotton gains, whether successfully, it remains to be seen.

THE PRESS EXCURSION.

The Tennessee Etna Coal Mines—Interesting Details—A Press Fright—Ludicrous Scene—Scared Quills—A Job's Comforter—Gray Hairs.

ROME, GA., August 27, 1869.

We were cut short in our letter last night, just as as we had finished the Vulcan Iron works. We will now take up the Etna Coal Mines.

Etna Coal Mines are owned by a New York Company, called Raccoon Mountain Iron and Coal Company. J. C. Hazelton, of New York, is President; Milo Pratt, of Chattanooga, Agent. The capacity of these works is about 90 tons per day, or 2,000 per month. They are the best mines in Tennessee, is thought. The diameter and the ventilation of the shafts are very fine. The ventilation is accomplished by means of furnaces. The coal bed is about three to four feet, in some places as thin as twenty inches, and in some reaching seven feet. All the coal is saved and the slack is made into coke. The coke from this mine has the best reputation of any market. It is worth from twelve to fourteen cents per bushel.

The coal costs about $3 45 per ton, or 13½ cents per bushel, delivered in the cars. The working force is 125 men, of whom 43 are miners. The whole mining force is imported from the northern part of England; and the agent informed me that they were the best and most courteous workmen he had ever handled. A party of ten were imported a few days ago. Their wages are from three to five dollars per day. The coal is sold for 13½ cents per bushel, at the works. The principal markets are the Southern States. These works were founded in 1855, and over $250,000 were expended on them. The composition of the coal is this: Carbon 73, gas 21, ashes: 350, sulphur .071, and balance moisiira. This is very fair coal, and contains a remarkably small amount of sulphur. The proprietors of these works, as of all that we have noticed yet, seem intent and determined on continually enlarging their works, and are devoting most of their profits in that direction—a comfortable sign. The coal does not carry well, and hence is not very desirable for domestic use; but being almost entirely free from clinker, and giving great heat, it is splendid for the use of manufacturers. Almost every mill and factory in the State, as well as East Tennessee, use this coal, and will have no other. "Give us Pratt's coal," say they all. These mines are about a mile and a half from the railroad, near Whiteside station. They are situated upon the top of the mountain, and are reached by a train of cars which are moved by a stationary engine. The grade is about 500 feet to the mile. There are two tracks laid, and as one loaded train is coming down the plain, pulled by gravity, it pulls the other up.

It was really amusing to see the fright under which the Press labored while wandering about under the earth. The main shaft of the mines runs an immense distance under the ground, and then branches into numberless ramifications. About thirteen of us started in first, guided by the imps of the mine—black, sooty little genii. After we had gone about one hundred yards, and the daylight was shut out, we were a badly scared set of men. Some one asked the lamp-crested little scoundrel that was leading us, if there were any holes that we might step in. "Yes;" says the young villain. "I soused up to my chin in one yesterday, and a fellow was drowned a day or two ago." The Press blanched, and Gen. Wright exclaimed, "I will give any amount of money to any man who will get me out of this place." A young gnome took the offer, and the last we heard of them was a shivering sigh from the General, as the guide told him that his light was nearly out, and he had no matches. About this time the mules and wagons commenced running to and fro. "Mules a-coming—scrouch to the wall," shrieked the guide. Looking up, we saw a crowd of shouting fiends, with lamps blazing on their foreheads, and lighting up their eyes and teeth, came whirling down upon us, while alongside of them loomed the shadowy outlines of the mules. "O ou-ugh!" shouted Wooten, of the Newnan Herald, and he turned, as did all of us, and splattered along in the darkness at a tremendous rate. For about fifteen minutes, Wooten enjoyed the honor of being the leading editor of the Georgia Press. Your correspondent stumbled on a rock, and never did he hug a damsel with a more fervent grasp than the one with which he clasped that rock. The mules passed in about three inches of me, which of course I enjoyed very much. We jumbled on after this for about a half mile, at a thousand risks, and at last my special guide informed us that a dark cavern was "Tom Smith's room." Anxious to meet anybody, we huddled in. Tom met us at the crack, and after welcoming us, proceeded, with grim equanimity, to show us a place where the mountain had slipped the day before and nearly buried him alive. A perceptible shudder ran through the Press, and I turned my mournful thoughts to my wife and six children, who I never hoped to meet again. (Tom Smith, yo atrocious frightener of editors, I hereby hope that if you ever do this way again, that your wife won't love you, and that your children won't resemble you.) At this juncture, a car passed and offered to take us out for a half dollar. Gladly we crouched upon it, and at length reached the daylight. I will never go in another coal mine. Such had been the extreme fright endured by our party, that though we had been in about an hour, one man was found upon coming out, to be perfectly gray. To save scientific men the trouble of making inquiries concerning this last assertion, I will state, the man alluded to was gray before he went in the cave.

The Albany News gives a Supreme Court decision on a larceny case where the larceny was proved, but the scamp said he had bought the hog stolen, from an unknown party, and the Court held that his statement proved the "Stay law" unconstitutional, and the defendant was entitled to a homestead in the hog.

The question arises, can an animal have a homestead in its own species.

Mr. Harrell had three beeves killed by lightning. Bainbridge has 3,000 inhabitants, and is entitled to be called a town. Bainbridge has received 41 new bales of cotton—the first two at 40 cents—the rest from 27½ to 29. Mr. R. C. Smith thrown from buggy and his collar bone broken—his wife and two children thrown out, but not badly hurt. Mr. James A. Clarke is dead.—Bainbridge Sun.

PERSONAL.—We had the pleasure of a call yesterday from Mr. W. A. Hemphill, of the Atlanta CONSTITUTION, who visits our city for recreation and in the interest of his paper. Any of our merchants desiring to advertise in an Atlanta paper, will find THE CONSTITUTION a splendid medium through which to make known their business.—Augusta Constitutionalist.

ATLANTA.—The great extent of the city limits and the rapidity with which it is "compacting" by the erection of hundreds of new buildings, rather shook the incredulity with which we had previously listened to claims that it had from thirty to thirty-eight thousand inhabitants. We still think that this must be an over-estimate, but the growth of the city has been great and wonderful, and it is still filling up and spreading in every direction.—Columbus Enquirer.

The trial of Warring Russell, Jailor, resulted in his acquittal. The following lively episode occurred during the trial:

Mr. Warring arose and stated that he in a matter of so serious importance objected to members going out to take drinks, and desired the reporters to take it down—Alderman Hunter returned and stated that he had not taken a drink, and Alderman Burroughs said he was a free man and would do as he pleased, and would never consent for Alderman Waring to be his pattern for propriety of conduct.—Savannan News.

The Columbus people have had a big railroad meeting, and resolved for the City Council to subscribe $400,000 to the Savannah and Memphis Railroad—$100,000 for each thirty miles, on condition that each thirty miles be completed before the subscription is paid to the next thirty miles, and that when the road reaches Etyton the work shops to be put at Columbus. The City shall make twenty year 7-per-cent. bonds, and levy tax to pay the interest, the tax receipts entitling the holder to stock to the amount paid. The whole scheme to be submitted to the vote of the citizens. The Grant Factory progressing. Chattahoochee river lower than for years.—Columbus Sun.

ATLANTA.—At 4 o'clock in the afternoon, Mayor Hulsey tendered the use of ten carriages to the members of the Convention, for a drive around the "Gate City," which they heartily accepted. All expressed themselves as not only pleased, but perfectly astonished, at the wonderful growth of Atlanta. But a few short years ago and she lay in ashes, a heap of ruins, at the foot of a ruthless invader—to-day, she assumes the magnificent proportions of a great city. Truly, her growth is wonderful. We were informed, on the authority of one of her best citizens, that there are no less than 1,171 buildings in course of construction within her limits. And we do not doubt it; for on every street, through which we rode, we observed scores of substantial buildings rapidly approaching completion.—Covington Enterprise.

A CRUNCHER.—The Tribune's style of Sarcasm.—That eloquent and able newspaper, the Louisville Courier-Journal, comes to the defense of Lord Byron's memory with whole squadrons of adjectives. He never could have been guilty of so "low, vulgar, unnatural, debasing and monstrous a crime"—his "soul being so refined and in some respects so lofty, grand and magnificent." "Sooner," says this vigorous journal, "than have even contemplated it, he would have thrown his naked head upon a dunghill, or plunged into a furnace of molten iron. Perish the thought from men's minds!" This will strike every reader as an able, vigorous, convincing, unanswerable, irrefragable, magnanimous, and, if we may say so, heterogeneous and didactically irresponsible refutation of the whole story; and very glad the admirers of Lord Byron will be to have it.

EDUCATIONAL NOTES.

The Tennessee Teachers' Association—Semi-Annual Meeting—Third Session.

LOOKOUT MOUNTAIN, Aug. 19, 1869.

From half-past nine until half-past ten, the County and State Superintendents were in private session. Many pertinent questions were asked and answered. These questions were generally those of finance and legal construction. It transpired that, in sixty-four counties, 135,000 children have attended school. In Andrew Johnson's county there are more schools than in any other, viz: ninety.

The meeting adjourns to give place to the regular session, when Hon. Horace Maynard delivered an address, vice Prof. John Ogden, of Fisk University, who is absent. The address occupied one hour, and was characterized by the brilliant and somewhat peculiar rhetoric of the Indian Senator. The views are principally old fashioned, and some of them excellent.

Prof. P. A. Bancroft now introduced his class in Calisthenics, a practice which has gained a sudden popularity in the Institution. The young ladies, although languid, got through their exercises with great precision and some poetry of movement.

Throughout the day previous and today, I have noticed upon the tables in the Chapel, some beautiful specimens of school apparatus, from the establishment of Waters, Monteith & Co., located in Chattanooga. Mr. Woodbury, of that firm, is now addressing the house and giving us information on the new methods of teaching arithmetic, spelling and geography, by objects as well as text books. I have been considerably interested during the sessions in reading a little work entitled "The Teachers' Guide to Illustration," which is written to accompany the illustrative apparatus.

Mr. Woodbury is immediately succeeded by Hon. J. N. Patterson, of Tennessee, and he by Prof. C. D. Lawrence, of the Nashville City Schools. His address on methods in the teaching of arithmetic is sparkling, and at the same time thorough. By wit, satire, and a graceful humor, it is awakening renewed interest in an audience already nearly satiated with an interesting succession of addresses.

Rev. E. O. Tade, Superintendent of Hamilton county, following in a complete and clear exhibition of the county Superintendent's system. Mr. McKinney, whose address was interrupted yesterday, was now requested to continue his words upon the same subject. After which, the Association adjourns to the hour of three in the afternoon.

In the interim that portion of the Association who were the guests of the "Institute," gave themselves up after dinner, to a succession of toasts and sentiments, which were overflowing with wit and humor.

THE LAST SESSION

was a very brief one. It opened with the usual congratulatory resolutions, introduced, in this instance, by the correspondent of the Press and Times, (Mr. Bennett.)

The important committee appointed yesterday, presented its report in the form of a memorial, urging upon the citizens of the State, a more careful regard for the educational interests of the State, and an endorsement of the main features in the late Superintendent's report, (published yesterday, a copy of which I transmit to you.) This memorial also decides the abolition of the sub-district system and the renewed co-operation of the county Superintendents. This report was "received" (whatever parliamentary significance that word may have.)

Prof. Bosson is giving his views on Prussian Education, meanwhile the house is in such disturbance as is premonitory of dissolution,

At length a committee is appointed to obtain the Capitol at Nashville, for its next session, (Nov. 3d and 4th,) and the Association adjourns at 5 P. M. It has worked hard to-day, and the members will perhaps construe weariness into profit.

EARNEST.

DIDN'T VOTE.—Three or four days subsequent to the late election, two negroes called at the Probate office, and said they wanted to "see de office."

"What office?" asked a voice from within.

"De 'lection office," said they.

"What do you want with 'de 'lection office?'"

"We's come here to vote."

"Why, you are too late—the election is over long ago."

"Don't care if 'tis; gwine to vote anyhow. Dis is de second time we's been cut out o' votin, and we's gwine to vote, too."

"Who do you want to vote for?"

"Mr. Hays."

"All right, hand in your tickets," and they departed satisfied.

These negroes had come all the way from Dixon's Mills, and said they would rather die than miss voting.

We believe them, as the mills are forty miles distant.—Demopolis Exponent.

☞ Iowa is ahead. A couple out there were married after fifteen minutes courtship, and in six hours were divorced.

The Next Presidency.

Dana says the three best Democratic nags for the race in 1871, are Pendleton, with the best prestige and the most positive and good looking politician; Packer, the rich fogy, and Adams, the youngest and most far-seeing.

There are also three others—old birds, wily and astute, Hoffman, Chase, and Hendricks. Chase relies on the negro vote very much, and is flirting with it. Dana thinks Chase ought to strip for the race; pull off his ermine. Hendricks is not progressive he thinks. He finally surmises if Vallandigham will "shuck" off his old notions, and advocate the Walker and Senter programme, he can have a showing himself.

Woman Suffrage.

At the woman suffrage meeting on the 24th, in New York, Mrs. Foster who had carried round for signatures a petition to Congress to let women vote, stated that women turned up their noses at it more than anybody else. The skeptical creatures in dimity and chignons wanted wickedly to know what good it would do. They horribly declared they had trouble enough now, and irreverently asked Mrs. F. if she wanted to make men of them. They didn't say it, but we know they meant that they so thoroughly wore the breeches at home, that they really didn't need any other marks of sovereignty, while, if they got to voting, and all that sort of thing, and entered into a live competition for bifurcated privileges, the men would kick up. The poor soul got small comfort from the incorrigible petticoats. They undoubtedly think it much better to be sweet and feminine, wear flashing laces and waterfalls, revel in the deference chivalry ever gives to the lady, be first always and every where and riot in all the power of beauty and womanly fascination, than don pants, swagger to the polls with drunken rowdies, battle rudely in public places for privileges and rights now accorded to them as graceful and willing courtesies.

The Death of Gen. Wharton.

In our last Sunday morning's paper, we gave a sketch of the gallant Texan General and our warm friend, John A. Wharton. It has drawn forth the following interesting account of the circumstances of his death, which we give in the place of our usual weekly article. It will be found well worthy of perusal.

We would state in this connection, that the series of Confederate sketches we have been giving, have been called forth by request of many of our readers, who thought that these incidents of our experience of leading men of the war, in the four years of almost uninterrupted service, would not be entirely unacceptable. Such episodes make the material for history, as well as keep alive the memory of departed Southern heroism.

Mr. Editor: I have read with a great deal of interest and pleasure, a recent editorial in THE CONSTITUTION, which gives an exceedingly spirited and correct delineation of the character of one of the most gallant heroes of the Lone Star State, Gen. John A. Wharton.

As many of your readers had the fortune of serving under the command of this brave and chivalrous Texan, during our struggle for independence, and many citizens know him personally and by reputation, I have thought that an account of his tragical and untimely death might prove interesting. The facts I am going to relate, I learned on a visit to Texas, three years ago, from General Jas. E. Harrison who was present during the difficulty, which resulted in General Wharton's death.

General Wharton, on being transferred to the trans-Mississippi Department, assumed the command of the cavalry formerly commanded by the lamented Tom. Greene. Among the officers who reported to him for duty, was the distinguished Judge David Terry, of California, who some years previously, had killed Senator Broderick in a duel, and was the brother of our first Colonel, Frank Terry. Judge Terry had run the blockade from California, and reached the Western Army, just before the battle of Chickamauga, in which battle he fought bravely as a private, in our regiment of "Texas Rangers," and was severely wounded.

He immediately received from the War Department the commission of Colonel of Cavalry, and was ordered to report to Gen. Wharton, by whom he was placed in command of a Brigade. Among the regimental commanders in his Brigade, was Col. George W. Baylor, one of the most intrepid, fearless, and knightly officers in our army, and who, up to that time, had been a chevalier Bayard, sans peur et sans reproche.

Colonel Baylor objected to serving under Colonel Terry, who was his junior in rank, whereupon he and General Wharton in a conference on the subject, used some very bitter and acrimonious language to each other. A short time after, General Wharton and General Harrison were riding in a carriage, in the city of Houston, when they met on the street Colonel Baylor. General Wharton accosted him, and demanded to know why he had left his command without permission. Colonel Baylor remarked that he had come to lay his grievances before General Magruder. Wharton ordered him back to his command, and told him if he did not return immediately he would have him arrested and sent back under guard. Colonel Baylor proceeded to Gen. Magruder's quarters, who was not present at the time. General Wharton afterwards drove to the office, accompanied by General Harrison, and, on reaching the door, Colonel Baylor, who was reclining on a couch, rose up and began to draw his pistol. General Wharton advanced, holding his fist in a menacing manner and pouring out torrents of invectives against Baylor. On reaching Baylor he struck him in the face, whereupon Baylor fired—killing him almost instantly. Colonel Baylor was tried by a Court Martial and acquitted.

Thus died one of the purest patriots, truest friends, and most gallant warriors that ever came from the "Lone Star State" which was so prolific in heroes during our struggle. With the fire, impetuosity and dashing elan of a Murat, he united the greatest prudence and wariness as a commander. As you have justly remarked, he performed as many brilliant actions and committed as few errors as any officer in our army. With great brusqueness, and often even severity of manner, he possessed an affectionate and child-like disposition. He was idolized by his troops, and, in return, entertained the most sincere and ardent attachment for them.

Your writer had the great pleasure of serving under his command during his whole career in the Western army—a part of the time as an officer in the Texas Rangers, and a part of the time in command of Gen. Wharton's scouting company, and subject only to his orders. He thus had ample opportunities for studying his character, which, in many respects, was an anomaly. Our relations were most confidential, and our friendship never received the slightest interruption.

Let us drop a tear of sympathy and regret over his untimely grave.

Gen. Wharton was no less at home on the hustings, than in leading his troopers in the charge. As Breckinridge Elector, in 1860, with his eloquent and impassioned appeals on the stump, he contributed much in carrying the vote of Texas for this gallant son of Kentucky. Had he lived, his friends predicted for him a brilliant political future.

Many thanks to you for your generous and truthful tribute to my noble old regiment. Her heroic dead lie slumbering on the gory fields of Kentucky, Tennessee, and Georgia. Let us, their few surviving comrades, do justice to their gallant deeds and keep them ever fresh and green in our memories.

A "TEXAS RANGER."

POST OFFICE,
ATLANTA, GA. Aug. 28, 1869.

Editor Constitution—Sir: For the information of those interested, I desire to make known that an International Arrangement has been perfected between the Post-office Department of the United States, and the Post-office Department of Switzerland, by which the money order system is made to cross the ocean for the first time, and that September first, proximo, is the day on which this new arrangement is to go into operation.

I am not informed as to the number of offices authorized to use this arrangement, but may add that the Atlanta Post-office has been designated as one of them.

As our city contains a large number of Germans, who may wish to avail themselves of the safe means of making remittance, I will further state that, these Money-orders are paid for here in currency, and the papers which show how much was paid, is sent to the New York Post-office, where it is computed at the value of gold on the day on which it was received, and having filled up the blank form which we furnish, it is then forwarded to any Money-order office on which it is drawn in Switzerland.

This system will, no doubt, be soon extended to other portions of Europe.

Very respectfully,

One thing is very clear—the French people are not so enthusiastic over Napoleon or the Empress as they used to be. They are a fickle people, and it is an old story. And if the truth were known, it would probably be found, and underneath the gayety and frivolity of this strange people the love of liberty burns on, even though it be in a smothered flame. At all events, Paris is in expectation of something, either a repetition of the old trickery, or some great change.

PEW TALK AND CHURCH SCANDAL.

That tall young fellow's here to-day,
I wonder what's his name?
His eyes are fixed upon our pew—
Do look at Sally Dame.

Who is that lady dressed in green?
It can't be Mrs. Leach,
There's Mrs. Jones with Deacon Giles!
I wonder if he'll preach.

Lend me your fan, it is so warm;
We both will sit to prayers;
Mourning becomes the widow Ames;
How Mary's bonnet flares!

Do look at Nancy Stooper's veil,
It's full a breadth too wide;
I wonder if Susanna Ayers
Appears to-day as bride?

Lord, what a voice Jane Rice has got;
Oh, how that organ roars!
I'm glad we've left the singer's seats—
How hard Miss Johnson snores.

What ugly shawls there are in front!
Do you observe Ann Wild?
Her new straw bonnet's trimmed with black;
I guess she's lost a child.

I'm half asleep—that Mr. Jones!
His sermons are no longer;
This afternoon we'll stay at home
And practice that new song.

BRAZIL.

A Racy Sketch of Life in the City of Para—Curious Social Customs.

The aspect of the town is quaint. Bizarre glimpses of ornate Moorish architecture, emblazoned with bright colors, alternate with the gray and venerable gloom of structures which are coeval with the earliest Jesuit occupancy of the town. The cathedral and some of the churches are ancient, while their environing structures are of recent origin, and display the glowing colors and intricate arabesque devices in which the southern races appear to delight. Mingled with these are habitations of extreme squalor, and not unfrequently the genuine Para hut, with its long, sloping roof of thatch, and its surrounding of high wooden palisades, asserts its claim to attention and admiration. Of old these palisades constituted a defense against the incursions of the savages, and they are in many cases yet retained from habit.

I noticed several well-built and spacious residences which were thus surrounded. The stakes were twelve or fifteen feet high, and placed close together, forming an impassable barricade. Some of the residences of the wealthier Paranese are spacious and elegant, surrounded by large gardens in which flowers of every tropic variety bloomed in a profusion unknown in our soberer climes. As they have no climatic rigors to combat save those of rain and heat, their habitations are devised with sole reference to protecting them from the sun and the rain. At night, when the houses are thrown open, they have the look of pavilions. You may, perhaps, see the members of the family reclining in chairs or hammocks, smoking, drinking lemonade or coffee, and it is likely that you may hear the civilized click of the billard balls or the rippling music of the piano. I took a long drive through the town at night in company with an American gentleman resident there, and owing to the extra-mural and unreserved usages of the town, had an excellent opportunity of making Asmodean observations. Nobody in Para seems to think of drawing a curtain or veiling the strictly personal concerns of life from the contemplation of the public. I saw a good many toilets making and unmaking, in every possible stage of progress and demolition. Peeping Tom of Coventry would have been quite in his element here. Tradition affirms that his curiosity cost him an eye; if similar penalty were exacted of the Paranese for the contemplation of each nude Godiva, one would need more eyes than Argus. I saw a very old woman with long gray hair, clad only in a night-gown, kneeling before a crucifix. In the next house a colored family appeared to be adjusting some little domestic dispute, and the air was clouded with flying wool. Three coffee-colored nymphs, scarcely more attired than Anadyomene when stood or reclined within a lamp-lit chamber, where there were birds, and monkeys, and tambours, and thin gauzy tapestry, and mats of leopard-skins, as unconscious of observation as Susannah may have been of the unpriestly and uncanonical contemplation of the elders. Nor did this casual display of the brown and unadorned graces of the Paranese nymphs impress one as being seriously out of place or improper. They were naked and unashamed, like Eve in the Garden, or like the forest maidens who clustered upon the beach and looked with wonder upon the white-winged galleys of Columbus, upon the knights in shining mail, the banners of St. Jago, and the Cross which the discoverers planted in the sand.—Harper's Magazine.

"Her clear limbs entired
All lips that now grow sad with kissing Christ,"

PRINCE ARTHUR—A Reminiscence.—Will the Jenkinses appointed to "do" Prince Arthur upon the arrival of that lively young gentleman in Canada, be kind enough to ask his Royal Highness if he remembers the following incident: It was at the Hotel Belvedere, Interlacken, Switzerland, the month of August, the year 1864. The Prince, in charge of his tutor, a gentleman in waiting—Major Gray, we believe—had apartments on the first floor, the windows of which opened upon the roof of the portico at the main entrance to the hotel. On the afternoon in question there had been a heavy hail storm, piling the icy missiles in great heaps wherever they could find a lodgement, and driving the guests, who were strolling about the gardens, to seek shelter within the portico.

The Prince, who had impatiently witnessed the storm from his apartment, could not resist the sight of the shining pebbles, which rested so invitingly just outside the window, and so, raising the sash, he slipped out, gathered a handful, and leaning over the balcony, discharged them upon the head of a lady who was standing immediately beneath him on the piazza. This sport continued until some gentleman shouted from below to "stop that d—d nonsense!" An instant after, as the Prince was exploring his magazine for fresh ammunition, the stentorian voice of the Major was heard lustily calling, "Come in this minute, sir!" The royal scion cast an imploring glance in the direction from whence the voice proceeded, clutched a last handful of the frozen projectiles, and with his right arm raised for a final volley, laughingly exclaimed, "Just one more shot, Major; I want to smash her waterfall!"—*N. TWO VALUABLE PLANTATIONS FOR SALE.

ONE two miles from Rome, and one and one-half miles from S. R. and R. R. Depot, containing two hundred and seventy-five acres of good land, and well improved.

This place was settled by Col. Wade S. Cothran, and the dwelling and out houses are all neat. The dwelling two stories, and contains seven large rooms. A splendid well of water, and an elegant orchard. This is one of the most desirable residences near the city.

The other place is on the Calhoun road, and four miles from the city; was settled by Mr. John Mann, and is well improved. Dwelling contains seven comfortable rooms.

This farm contains two hundred acres of land, and is well watered; water can be brought to the house, through pipes, from an elegant spring.

In saying that these two places are not surpassed in location, by any farms near the city, I know that I do not exaggerate. Both places in sight of the Selma, Rome and Dalton Railroad.

The growing crop, stock and farming implements, will be sold with either place if desired.

Both of the above places will be sold at public outcry, on the first Tuesday in October, if not disposed of before that time.

COSTS IN CRIMINAL CASES.—For the benefit of those who deny the right of Justices of the Peace to award costs in cases where the party charged before them is discharged, we refer them to the act of 1811, section 19, which reads as follows:

When any person or persons charged with any offense and brought before a Justice or Justices of the Peace, shall be discharged for want of sufficient cause of commitment, the Justice or Justices may, in his or their discretion, discharge the party with costs, or direct the cost to be paid by the prosecutor.—Cobb's Digest Laws of Ga., page 641; Prince's Dig., 505.

B. D. SMITH,
Notary Public.

INTERNAL REVENUE DECISION.—We gave the points of Judge Erskine's decision a few day's since, in the case of the Supervisor of Internal Revenue against Meador & Bros. Yesterday Judge Lochrane presented an application for writ of error to the Supreme Court, on the following grounds, viz:

1. That there is no power to punish for contempt in the Court except the act of contempt is within the Statute of 1831.

2. That the act of 1831, by its legislative history, as well as by its terms, is a limitation of Jurisdiction in cases of contempt.

3. That the proceedings before the Supervisor is not a proceeding in a Court and not within the provisions of the act of 1831.

4. The application of summary convictions for contempt, are against the genius and spirit of the Constitution, in derogation of civil liberty; there is no grand jury to accuse, no petit jury to try, but both property and liberty, is at the fiat of the Court.

5. Such convictions are subject to review, not being criminal cases within the sense or sentiment of the law negativing jurisdiction in "criminal cases."

In support of this Judge Lochrane made an able speech.

Judge Erksine refused to allow the application or grant the writ of error.

THE SIMMS EXAMINATION—Eighth Day's proceedings, before United States Commissioner W. E. Smith.—J. L. Dunning recalled by Government. Am acquainted with the building in rear of United States Hotel, formerly occupied by Simms as a post-office; the building remained vacant for some two or two months and a half, according to the memory of the witness, and since then occupied as a part of the hotel itself.

P. H. Woodward recalled by Government. At the meeting of witness with Simms on the 12th of July, defendant offered an account which witness glanced over hastily, and objected to some of the items. Defendant offered a receipt purporting to be signed by Bigham for $5,194 44, which witness objected to. Witness thought a number of articles of furniture had been paid for, as witness had made allowances for furniture while at Washington. Defendant said that if any of the articles of furniture had been paid for they could be rejected, as he did not wish to charge for them again. Witness recognized several items in the account admitted as evidence, and supposes it to be the same account offered by Simms on the 12th of July. Directed Simms to pay over all he could to Dunning. Defendant offered his account as a set-off to the Government account, and after deducting defendant's account a balance of $585 was left in favor of the Government. Some of the post-office regulations are old; others are based on the statute of 1864 reorganizing the Department. Witness had no authority to allow the account of Simms, nor did he presume to do so. He had a letter from the Superintendent of the Money-Order Bureau, instructing him to request Simms to pay over to Dunning, in his presence, the sum of $23,281 37.

Counsel for Government tendered in evidence, a copy of Post-office regulations. Ruled out by the Commissioner. Counsel for both sides admitted the fact that Simms and bondsmen were sued on their bond in a civil proceeding for $23,281 37.

General Gartrell arose and stated that the evidence having disclosed the state of the accounts between Mr. Simms and the Government, and Mr. Simms being desirous of having the whole matter sifted thoroughly before a jury of his countrymen, his counsel voluntarily tendered bond in the sum of $20,000 for his appearance at the next term of the United States District Court to answer the charge, which bond was accepted by the Commissioner and the counsel for the Government.

Commissoner Smith then remarked:

I advert with pleasure to the courtesy and propriety which have marked the course of all engaged in this proceeding. The United States District Attorney, has faithfully and watchfully attended the progress of the case. His associate counsel, in behalf of the Government, Messrs. Bleckley and Akerman, and Messrs. Gartrell & Lochrane, representing the defendant, have also ably and earnestly maintained their differing views of the law and the evidence. I am apprised that nothing that I may say, can add to the well-earned reputation of all these gentlemen, as lawyers and advocates. I must return them my thanks for the closeness and fulness with which every question arising in the course of this proceeding, has been discussed, and the assistance which they have thus afforded to me by their able arguments on every disputed point. I regret that this preliminary trial could not have been sooner brought to a close, consistently with a regard for the rights of both the government and the defense. But the important character of the case, and the views of duty entertained by counsel, and the amount and nature of the testimony adduced, have necessarily made the examination a protracted one. In conclusion, gentlemen, I have to congratulate myself that, by agreement among counsel engaged in the case, I am saved the necessity of deciding upon the sufficiency of the showing that has been made. Let a Bond be given that will be satisfactory to the Attorneys for the Government.

United States District Attorney John Milledge, responded to the remarks of the Commissioner in substance as follows: I cannot allow the occasion of our separation to pass without returning in behalf of the counsel on both sides our acknowledgments for the highly complimentary manner in which you have been pleased to allude to the manner in which we have discharged our duties, and by the permission of the Court to express our warm admiration of the patient, able and impartial manner in which you have presided over the deliberations of this doubly interesting investigation.

The bond was executed and approved.

The lowest amount of cotton received at their warehouse was 16,000 and the highest 46,000 bales, over an average of 30,000 per annum. Perhaps no other house in Georgia has done so large a business. PRETTY WOMEN.—A comparatively few Ladies monopolize the Beauty as well as the attention of Society. This ought not to be so, but it is; and will be while men are foolish and single out pretty faces for companions.

This can all be changed by using Hagan's Magnolia Balm, which gives the Bloom of Youth and a refined, sparkling Beauty to the Complexion, pleasing, powerful and naturnl.

No Lady need complain of a red, tanned, freckled, or rustic Complexion, who will invest 75 cents in Hagan's Magnolia Balm. Its effects are truly wonderful.

PHYSICIANS USE THEM IN THEIR PRACTICE.—It is almost universally the case that Physicians condemn what are generally known as "Patent Medicines." Although DR. TUTT'S LIVER PILL IS NOT A PATENT MEDICINE, yet its composition (the result of years of study) is known only to himself, and so palpable are their valuable curative properties, that very many of the first Physicians in the South and West have adopted them in their practice, and recommend them to their patients.

IMPORTANT DISCOVERY.—Galileo invented the telescope; Columbus discovered a new world, and to Professor Morse is due the credit of teaching the lightning how to talk, but it was reserved to Dr. J. Bradfield to penetrate the mystic depths of science, and drag therefrom the wonder of our century. The victory has been won, and woman is free.

The sale of Dr. J. Bradfield's Female Regulator is unprecedented in the history of popular remedies, and thousands of certificates are coming in from grateful women, throughout the Union, attesting its powers and applauding its untold benefits to their sex. dtf

BUTLER AT CAMP MEETING.—Ben Butler is here, jolly and rollicking; glad, he says, at the prospect of Andy Johnson's return to the Senate, "for it will stir up the Republican old fogies and do good;" and manifestly the favorite of the heretics and heathen and sinners generally for Wilson's place in the Senate.

WONDERFUL.—Henry W. Burr, No. 49 West 14th Street, while on a visit to the West, was attacked with severe illness from drinking impure water. Life was despaired of, and it was thought that he must die. His wife was immediately sent for, and in a day or two was at his bedside. Having herself seen the beneficial results from the use of PLANTATION BITTERS, she insisted upon their being administered to him, which was done. In quantities prescribed by the attending physician. The result was almost as if by magic, and in one-half hour from the time they were given, her husband was out of danger, and by a moderate use of them three or four times a day, he was soon able to resume his journey to his home. This is but one case of many thousands that we know of.

DR. HUNTER.

CONTINUES to treat all private diseases, Syphilis in all its forms, Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Orchitis, and all urinary diseases, and the effects of murcury are completely eradicated; Spermatorrhea or Seminal Weakness, resulting from self-abuse or other causes, and which produces some of the following effects: as blotches, bodily weakness, indigestion, constipation, aversion to society, unmanliness, dread of future events, loss of memory, indolence, nocturnal emissions, and finally prostration of the vital powers, can be fully restored to health. Persons afflicted with this, or any other delicate, intricate, or long standing constitutional complaint, should give the Doctor a trial. He never fails.

The Doctor publishes a medical circular that gives a full exposition of venereal and private diseases, that can be had free at his office, or by mail for one stamp. It gives a clear delineation of all the diseases and conditions resulting from the infringement of the moral laws, excesses, indulgences, exposures and imprudences in married or single life. Every sentence contains instruction to the afflicted, and enabling them to determine the precise nature of their complaints.

The establishment, comprising ten ample rooms, is central. When it is not convenient to visit the city, the Doctor's opinion can be obtained by giving a written statement of the case, and medicines can be forwarded by mail or express. In some instances, however, a personal examination is absolutely necessary, while in others, daily personal attention is required, and for the accommodation of such patients there are apartments connected with the office that are provided with every requisite that is calculated to promote recovery, including medicated vapor baths. All prescriptions are prepared by the Doctor's own Laboratory, under his personal supervision. Medical pamphlet at office free or by mail for two stamps. No matter who have failed, read what he says. Office No. 183 Third street, between Green and Walnut streets, near the Postoffice, Louisville. Office hours, 9 A. M., to 7 P. M.; Sundays, 10 A. M. to 12 M. june29-d&w1y

L. H. BRADFIELD'S COLUMN.

DR. J. BRADFIELD'S
FEMALE REGULATOR,
Woman's Best Friend

THIS valuable Medicine is prepared for WOMEN exclusively, and to be used by WOMEN only. It is adapted especially to those cases where the WOMB is disordered, and will cure any irregularity in the "menses," except in such cases as require a surgical operation. As these last are very rare, the FEMALE REGULATOR is of almost universal application. In a sudden check of the "monthly courses" from COLD, trouble of mind or like cause, it acts like a charm, by RESTORING THE DISCHARGE IN EVERY INSTANCE, thus relieving the fever, headache, pain in the small of the back and "lower stomach," flushes of heat about the face, chilly sensations, burning of the eyelids and general restlessness. Taken in time, all these symptoms pass away immediately, without injury to the constitution. Frequently, however, the proper remedy is not applied in time, the disease becomes chronic, and the foundation laid for numberless evils to the constitution of the woman. The next "turn" comes around and there is no "show," or perhaps, the "whites" will appear. There will be some uneasiness about the womb, but very little or none of the natural fluid escaping. The complexion becomes sallow, bowels, swollen, a sort of greenish caste about the face, constant dull aching pains in the head, weight in the lower stomach and back, with or without whites, palpitations of the heart, pallor, exhaustion, indigestion, weariness, langour, aching across the loins, loss of appetite, pain in left breast, tightness across the chest, cough and giddiness. If still allowed to go on, "green sickness" will be fully developed—the headache becomes severe, with loss of memory, diminishing sensibility, SICK STOMACH, dyspepsia no relish for food, loss of flesh, increased fluttering of the heart SWELLING OF THE FEET, legs and body and occasional spitting of blood. The slightest effort causes HURRIED BREATHING, almost SUFFOCATION. The skin is flabby and a "doughy feel." This is a sad picture, but it is the condition of thousands of women between the ages of 15 and 45, who are brought to the verge of the grave by ignorance or neglect to take the proper remedy. To all who are afflicted with any of the symptoms above mentioned, in connection with an irregularity of the "monthly sickness," we earnestly say TAKE DR. J. BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR. A few ounces taken, you will at once experience its benefits, and with a little patience you will be fully restored to health.

This remedy has been extensively used for upwards of twenty years by many of the most experienced and successful Physicians of Georgia. We repeat, that DR. J. BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR is prepared for WOMEN and to be used by Women only.

A trial is all we ask.

ATLANTA, GA., December 29th, 1868.

DR. J. BRADFIELD—Dear Sir: I take pleasure in stating that some time previous to the late war, I used, with the utmost success, on a servant girl, your FEMALE REGULATOR, prepared then at Bradfield's Drug Store, West Point, Ga. She had been suffering severely from suppressed menstruation, and this Medicine soon restored her to health. She is, to-day, living in Atlanta, sound and well.

I will state, further, that I know of its being used, with equal success, on a servant girl of my brother-in-law, Professor Rutherford, of Athens, Ga. This woman had, I think, been diseased for six years. She was a house servant, and seemed cured, up to the time of "freedom," I do not hesitate to indorse your preparation for the purposes for which you recommend it.

Yours truly, JNO. C. WHITAKER.

STATE OF GEORGIA, TROUP COUNTY.

This is to certify that I have examined the recipe of Dr. Joseph Bradfield, of this county, and, as a medical man, pronounce it to be a combination of Medicines of great merit in the treatment of all the diseases of females for which he recommends it. WM. P. BEASLEY, M. D.

THE DAILY CONSTITUTION.

ATLANTA, GEORGIA::::AUGUST 28.

City and Suburban Affairs.

RAIN.—The rain last night extended along the line of the Georgia Railroad from Atlanta to Augusta.

ATLANTA MEDICAL COLLEGE COMMENCEMENT.—The old court room at the City Hall, was filled at an early hour this morning, to its fullest capacity, to witness the Commencement exercises of the Medical College. We were pleased to see such a large number of ladies out. Col. W. L. Mitchell, President of the Board of Trustees of the State University, in a few pertinent remarks, presented Diplomas to the following graduates:

C. K. Lewis, H. N. Rosser, H. V. Westmoreland, J. B. Fonilo, B. G. Poer, T. J. Greer, B. M. Owen, T. R. Kendall, W. H. Farmer, J. T. Holbrook, L. C. Tennent, J. T. Curtis, D. W. Killian, E. S. Rogers, J. S. Montgomery, Thos. Patterson, John H. Jones, J. D. Stallings, J. F. Webb, A. K. Patterson, M. J. Hicks, J. A. Knight, B. S. Callaghan; Dr. Wm. B. Miller, Honorary. Dr. M. J. Daniel, Dr. R. A. T. Ridley, Dr. J. K. Ford, ad eundem.

T. R. Kendall, of Upson county, delivered the Valedictory Address, which reflected credit upon him as a sound thinker and forcible speaker.

Chancellor A. A. Lipscomb delivered the address to the graduating class. The address was listened to with marked attention, and received hearty evidences of approval of the leading ideas. Chancellor Lipscomb chose for his theme, "The Providences of God," and handled it with the grasp of a true statesman and the comprehension of an intelligent Christian.

He advocated sectionality without sectionalism; a building up of our resources; and a tolerant spirit. When he spoke of Johnson, Beauregard and Johnston as leaders in Industrial progress, and Gen. Lee in Educational advancement, he was greeted with long and loud applause.

The effort was worthy of the distinguished reputation Chancellor Lipscomb enjoys as a Christian, Patriot and Orator. Would that his doctrines could be promulgated throughout the length and breadth of the entire South, and cordially embraced.

Professor Clark and his band discoursed fine music on the occasion.

Death in the Lamp.

One death by accidental poisoning is enough to startle the community, and scarcely any measures allowed by the law against the druggist whose mistake has occasioned it are severe enough to satisfy the public. But death in another and more terrible form is freely sold at a thousand shops in this city, is carried into nearly all families, and hardly a word is said against those who, with a negligence so gross as to savor almost of malice or crime, are making money by distributing it as one of the conveniences of life. It is time to make known the alarming fact that the substance commonly known as illuminating oil is almost as explosive as gunpowder, and almost as dangerous to handle as the dreaded nitro-glycerine.

It is but a few days since a man employed about some machinery, upon a Pennsylvania railway, took with him for use a can containing what he supposed to be lubricating oil. He used it about axles and shafts for more than a day with entire success, and had nearly exhausted it, when he undertook with the last drops to oil an axle that was revolving rapidly. The can suddenly exploded in his hands, and he was blown to pieces. An examination showed that his oil was really nitro-glycerine, called the most violent explosive substance that science has devised. But if this man had taken the lamp-oil sold every hour, it seems that his life would have been still shorter.

A large proportion of the patients now admitted to the city hospitals are sufferers by the explosion of kerosene lamps. One-fourth of the alarms of fire have the same origin. The coroners are busy with inquests upon the bodies of those suddenly killed and mutilated by such accidents.

Professor Charles F. Chandler says, in the Chemical News:

"Day after day, we see accounts of horrible deaths from accidents; sometimes the lamp explodes; sometimes it is overturned; sometimes fire is kindled with a little oil from the can; in numerous ways the fatality occurs; but the cause is always the same—bad oil. It has been our duty to examine the kerosene retailed in New York, and, although we have purchased and examined upward of one hundred samples, we have not yet found a single sample of safe oil—oil which conforms to the regular legal standard—

"1. That it shall not take fire or burn at a temperature below 110 deg. Fahrenheit.

"2. That it shall not evolve an explosive vapor below 100 deg. Fahrenheit."

—while about twelve per cent. of the specimens are pure benzine, the most volatile and dangerous product of petroleum.

What is the remedy for this? A common demand is for more stringent legislation.

But is there not a simpler way than this? People do not need special laws to keep them from burning gunpowder for coal. The laws we have are enough to punish those who recklessly sell death for gain in any form. Can any jury hesitate to convict of manslaughter the man who makes and sells explosive oils for household uses, and so kills his customers? After all the public warnings that have been given, and the scientific information on the subject that has been made general, any dealer who distributes oil without knowing that it is safe is criminally responsible for the fatal consequences.

At present, it appears, there is no safe oil in the market. Professor Chandler gives this simple test:

"The most dangerous oils can be recognized at once by applying a lighted match to a small quantity contained in a saucer. Every oil that can be lighted with a match should be condemned at once, as only the most dangerous will take fire at ordinary temperatures."

Let it be understood that the man who brings to his house any of the illuminating oil now commonly sold, or any such oil that has not been proved and found safe by this or some similar test, does so at the peril of his life and property.

To limit, as far as possible, the distressing accidents now of daily occurrence, it is not alone sufficient to test the quality of the oil used; only the best standard oil (110 deg. Fahrenheit) should be employed with the utmost caution; for glass lamps are too easily broken, overturned or dropped in carrying; metal lamps retain and conduct the heat so as to become insidious gas retorts and generators, and fearfully dangerous. Thus, ordinary use exposes those around to risk of accident. But, if these general contingences were not sufficiently dangerous, instances are constantly arising through the deplorable ignorance, or gross negligence, displayed in various ways, such as filling lamps while burning; blowing down the chimney instead of turning down the wick; pouring the fluid on the fire to kindle it; imperfectly cleaning wicks and burners, and similar reckless and off hand extravagant acts. Persons employing illuminating oils of any description, should make themselves thoroughly acquainted with their properties, and the safest mode of handling, and especially warn and instruct their children and servants therein.

Let it be remembered that water does not quench the flames of petroleum; on the contrary, it floats on the surface and spreads the fire more rapidly. Two persons a day lose their lives in this manner, "with horror madly dying."

In the use of all useful but dangerous articles, a timely caution may educate the public to lessen the evils of their abuse, so that mind and skill may eventually control and handle it with impunity.—New York Post, August 6.

BRAN NEW LETTERS!!

FRESH TESTIMONIALS!

DARBY'S PROPHPLACTIC FLUID!

THE ASTONISHING

Family Medicine!!!

Saved from Death---Read!

MONTGOMERY, ALA., June 28, 1869.

MESSRS. J. DARBY & CO., 161 William street, New York—Gents: Yours, of the 23d, is before me and has attention. It gives me pleasure to say, that my belief is, that your "Fluid," under the supervision of a kind Providence, saved the life of my youngest child, some six years ago. The child being wasted to a skeleton, by the effects of teething, and an affection of the bowels therewith. I had never seen any one reduced so low to recover.

"Physic" had been tried in vain, until the Physicians stated it was useless. A friend recommended your "Fluid," or ozone, which he stated was one of the component parts of it. I did so, and the effect was like magic, plainly discernable in one hour, in its good effects, producing quiet and sleep almost at once, where irritation and sleepless restlessness had previously possessed the child to nearly entire exhaustion.

I at first administeredit in a small way, 2 and 3 drops in a spoonful of water, and increased it to 6 and 10 drops. It completely checked the bowels, and had the happiest effect, the child rapidly recovering.

I have tried your "Fluid," on animals, with the same effect; both horses and cows, mingling more or less in water, and letting them drink.

I have no hesitation in saying, I believe it a specific for Chronic Diarrhœa, or any violent affection of the bowels.

I would not be without it in my family, under any consideration.

Yours, truly, WILLIAM FOWLER.

Mr. Fowler is a member of the celebrated Banking House of Fowler & Somerville, Montgomery, Alabama.

AND AGAIN!

Read the following letter from Mr. Frank Saunders, a well-known citizen, and brother-in-law of the beloved Bishop Paine, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South:

189 BROADWAY, NEW YORK, July 29, 1869.

MESSRS. J. DARBY & CO., 161 WILLIAM STREET, NEW YORK—Gents: About the 10th of June last, one of my children was taken with Scarlet Fever, in its most malignant form, and as soon as I could I procured your valuable disinfectant, "Darby's Prophylactic Fluid." Although it was several days after the appearance of the disease before I began using the Fluid, still, by a free use of it, the disease was not only confined to the one case, but the malignity of that case somewhat mitigated.

During the use of the Fluid as a disinfectant, in my family it was also, tried in a case of headache, and one of toothache, the results in each case being instantaneous relief. It was afterwards tried in a case of Erysipelas, with almost equal success.

It is due to the merits of this compound, also, to state, that the case of Erysipelas in question, being located in the feet, the Fluid, in its application, was brought in frequent contact with a troublesome corn, on one of the feet, to the utter discomfiture of said corn; for, upon subsequent examination, it had disappeared, and though it was sought for diligently, it could not be found.

I hand you this, hoping it may be the means of inducing others of earth's poor sufferers, to test for themselves, as I did, the great merits of this great remedy.

Very respectfully, yours,
FRANK SAUNDERS.

Never was a medicine so universally esteemed and extolled. It never fails. It may be depended on.

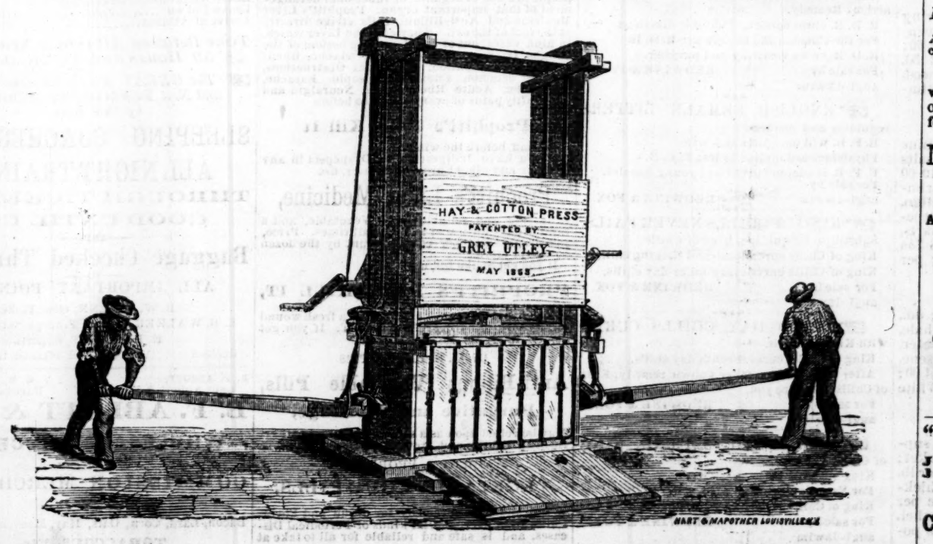
"THE UTLEY COTTON PRESS."



A new invention of power whereby all friction is overcome. The simplicity, economy and durability of this Press astonishes all who see it, and the more so, that a power so simple should so long have been unappropriated. The strain is wholly upon two (2) Iron Bars 1¾ inches square, operating on these bars as if two men were pulling at each end in contrary direction, which will sustain a strain of 190,000 pounds each. With this Press two men can do all the packing or pressing of a 500 pound bale inside of eight minutes, and if need be, one man can operate, only requiring more time. This Press will not occupy more space than a Piano, and can be placed under the Gin and receive the Cotton direct from the Gin, thus doing away with Lint Rooms, and can be readily taken down and transported as it is simple and light. We can supply these Presses cheaper than any yet offered. Will send circulars to any desiring, and would advise all wanting Presses to withhold buying until they examine this. We will, at an early day, have one on exhibition in Atlanta, when it can be seen.

R. P. GLENN, Agent.

R. P. GLENN, ESQ.—Dear Sir: I am so much pleased with the style, make and operation of the Utley Cotton Press, that I have concluded to order one of them from you for my plantation on the Mississippi River.

I do this, notwithstanding I have on my place a large and superior 16 inch Iron Screw Press, which cost upwards of $300 before the war. Believing that the saving of time and space, to say nothing of its superior baling qualities, and by reason of its great power, will more than repay its cost over the one now in use. I do not hesitate to recommend this Press to all who may require one.

Very Respectfully,
A. J. HOLMES.
